WRESTLING.

MANCHESTER.

ROYAL OAK PARK.—A match in which was centered more than the usual amount of interest was brought to an issue at these grounds last Saturday afternoon. The men engaged are well known adepts at the pastime, their names being James Newton, alias Teapot, of Dukinfield, and Henry Council, alias Borden, of Hill Top, near Bury, they having agreed to wrestle the best of three back falls, Lancashire fashion, catch as catch can, for £25 a side. A very large company was present, upwards of 1,500 persons paying the admission fee. Newton was most fancied. The betting, which opened at 5 to 4 on him, closed at 3 to 1. At the appointed time the competitors made their appearance and disrobed, Newton having for his attendants Budd, of Hollinwood, and J. Haguo, of Ashton, his opponent being waited upon by W. Schora, of Ashton, and J. Bentley, of Starling. Mr. Geo. Martin having consented to act as referee, the men at once proceeded to business, when, after a desperate struggle of ten minutes, the first throw was gained by the favourite. On resuming hostilities Council brought his man to grass at the expiration of eight minutes "Now came the tug of war" for the final fall, which, after some splendid wrestling, was gained by Newton, who was thereupon declared the winner.

COPENHAGEN GROUNDS.—Mr. Thomas Hayes is in receipt of £15 each for the match between E. Lowe, of Whitworth, and J. Newton, alias Teapot, of Staleybridge, to wrestle two out of three back falls, for the champion's belt (now held by Lowe) and £25 a side, on August 12. To be made into £20 a side on July 24.

QUICKSILVER, THE FIRST PRIZE ROAD STALLION, THE PROPERTY OF W. JACKSON, ESQ., LYNN.

WITH THIS NUMBER IS PRESENTED GRATIS A COLOURED PORTRAIT OF TOM SAYERS,

was made a short time back stated that Thomas Appleby and George Young pulled a right away scullers' race from the High Level-bridge to the Suspension-bridge on the Tyne, in skiffs, for £25 a side, Mr. Leithhead, Oak Tree Inn, Monkwearmouth, being stakeholder. The present is the fourth time the men have pulled against each other, Young's victory on Monday last making the score equal. The first time they met was in Harry Clasper's sculler boats for £40, from Coppy's Stairs to Scotswood-bridge, 3 miles. The weather was very unsettled and a heavy wind disturbed the water so much that it was with difficulty the race could be pulled. Young on that occasion made a sad mess of it, he went completely to the south side of the river for protection as he supposed and lost easily. Plucky like his backers were not satisfied, and another agreement was entered into to pull in 7 days over the same course, Young being allowed his choice of boats; the race ended in favour of Young, who won a capital contest by a few lengths. Their next meeting was on the Wear, at Sunderland, in skiffs, for £25 a side, and the Championship. The race promised to be a handsome one, but it was unfortunately cut short by Young falling overboard on account of having fouled a buoy almost as soon as the start was effected and the present match is said to be the result of that contretemps. Young has pulled two other matches on the Tyne: one was with H. Riley, in sculler boats for £20, when Riley won on account of an accident to Young. The other was with Freck, of Sunderland, one and a half miles, in heavy sculler boats, for £30. Freck got the stakes on account of a foul; had such not occurred Young must have won easily. Both Appleby and Young are well knit, hardy visaged, muscular young men. Three weeks or so ago both took up their quarters at Dunston, Appleby having the services of Hornaby, of Gateshead, W. Hominings, of Richmond, having the care of Young. On account of the tide it was decided to pull on Monday morning last, to be in their boats at 9.40 o'clock. The morning was calm and the water smooth, and several hundreds of people awaited the start and finish of the match. Three steamers attended. The Royal Charlie (from Sunderland), Bonnie Dundee, and Bonaccort (referee). Mr. Leithhead officiated as umpire for Young, Boyd, of Gateshead, for Appleby, and Mr. William Gillender, and the people on shore imagining that the race lay between the two cheered heartily, to the fun of those on board the steamers, who kept up the joke in first-class style. A couple of hundred yards from the Bridge Bob Chambers, who had been pulling in front, went alongside of Young. Nothing would now satisfy the saltwater lads than that the couple should have a fair race to the finish. Bob assented, and it was enjoyable to see the fashion in which Chambers left poor Young in the background. Young pulled the distance in 23 min 32 sec.

SKIFF MATCH ON THE TYNE, FOR £10 A SIDE.

This match was an exception to the general run of small events, inasmuch as it has created equally as much stir and interest as many contests which at the present time rank tolerably high in Tyne-side athletics. It would be a little piece of bigotry on our part not to acknowledge the justice paid to many Northern young men for their keen appreciation of boatrowing, and the highly creditable manner in which they labour to sustain the integrity and advanced position of the Tyne, and there is little doubt the opponents in the present case are fair samples of pluck and hardihood, and in the future may, with care, acquit themselves with the same amount of discretion and far seeing that has so importantly distinguished the career of Robert Chambers. The contest we are about to detail, as we have already said, cannot, a vast store of interest, and we must express our regret that so promising a contest should have ended so dissatisfactorily. The articles, which were made at Mr. Stephenson's, Nun's-gate, Newcastle, stated that Hugh Clelland and Young, otherwise "Darkey," pull one mile, from the Bridge to Waterston's Quay, in skiffs, for £10 a side. Anent the qualifications of the men we can only say that both are about 19 years of age, and strikingly muscular. Clelland, however, is apparently taller and stronger of the two, but the information we have to adduce will, or should prove that appearance is deceptive in some cases. Clelland's last match was against Smith, of Dunston, Gateshead, one mile, in sculler boats, when he won easily; Young last met Mills, of Newcastle, in similar boats, when after some nonsense, in the shape of fouling, he was accredited with the stakes. Young is a race now ensued for the next sixty yards, when, opposite the Timbo Yard, Clelland, on account of the swell, lost complete command of his right-hand scull, a contretemps that brought him to a complete standstill, and which lost him at least three parts of a length. Righting himself however at once he steamed on, and lessening the gap perceptibly, the race was certainly a case of doubt at the Grindstone Quay. At this place the rowers kept uncomfortably close, and almost immediately afterwards Clelland held up his right hand, as much as to say that he claimed a foul, but we must say that if such actually occurred it must have been of the nicest character, and that few, if anyone, witnessed it. As it was Clelland slackened, and Young, who never in the slightest case, kept rowing in and came out fully two lengths first at the Tower. Clelland's friends now urged him onward, but Young was equal to the effort, and Clelland, shabby like, again stopped, and spoke to those on shore, amongst whom we imagined he had only few friends. From this point it is useless noticing the match, farther beyond that Young kept a capital course, and pulled steadily, while Clelland was more than once unable to manage his craft, which sometimes showed a disposition to tumble a summersault, consequently the affair continued so, and Young went in first by considerably more than fifty yards. The referee was now appealed to for his decision, when, after some discussion, he gave the race to Clelland, who he says was fouled as above detailed. There was a vast amount of wrangling about the result, and we will side no more with one than another, only we consider that such petty cases of fouling ought not to be judged so harshly. Had we the power, we should, in all such instances, make the men pull over, and then we might be spared such scenes as those which have characterised the present match, and that which took place between Meek and Young three weeks ago. We are perfectly aware our opinion of such cases is fully backed out by the cleverest trainers and judges in England. Time, 8 min 44 sec.

CUSTOM HOUSE REGATTA.—This regatta, for free watermen of the Custom House, in sculler boats, will take place on Thursday, Sept. 21 when the boat and money prizes will, as usual, be rowed for. T. W. Myers, manager.

THE CAMP AT WIMBLEDON, A SKETCH TAKEN ON SATURDAY LAST.

Oldham acted as referee. Betting: 5 and 6 to 4 on Appleby. About ten o'clock they both put off, Appleby appeared in Thomas Wilson's "Star," and Young pulled in one of Jewitt's boats. After very little cantering both came out of the second arch of the bridge, Young having the north side. To obtain a start there was a vast amount of foolishness, fifteen minutes at least being cut to waste, when Appleby, to crown the whole, made a vigorous push, which broke his right scull clean in twain, a state of affairs which caused much regret. After a short delay a pair were got from Clasper's, and another pair from the Tyne Amateur Rowing Club, and at 10.35 o'clock the men a second time took up their position. False start after false start now took place for the next ten minutes, when a capital break was made, Young having a little the better of it, which he increased to almost a quarter of a length before fifty yards had been pulled of the course. Appleby now exerted himself, if anything a little more, and gradually crept up until the Mansion House was reached, when the race was perfectly level. Appleby still kept up the pace, and little by little appeared in front, until he had half a length the advantage, which he made into one length less a few inches. At the Skinner's Burn, Young, although pulled extremely well, plainly could not make any better of the match, beyond losing four or five feet more during the following sixty yards, when Appleby took the north side. Opposite the Mills as Young began to make up sharp, when a foul almost appeared inevitable. He however came out first in time, and brought himself again level at the Ship Tower. A splendid piece of pulling now took place for nearly 300 yards, neither having a little the best. On nearing the high part of the quay the pace told heavily on Appleby, who little by little fell astern, and he afterwards fared so badly that at least four lengths divided them at the mile. Any odds were offered now on Young, but none of Appleby's party were to be found napping. From this point Young's course was uninterrupted. A short distance up so effectively did he pump himself out that he resigned the fight at once. As soon as he stopped a cheer was set up for Young, who, we must mention, pulled a fair and straightforward race. Young during the remaining portion of course was accompanied by James person of questionable colour, which was for him the equally questionable cognomen of Darkey. For a few days prior to the race Young was domiciled at the Clasper Hotel, the property of the great veteran Harry. Saturday last, the day specified for the race, was not as comfortable as might have been desired, the wind blew tolerably strong from the westward during the early part of the day, and a short time before the stated time for the race it increased in force so much that it was only with difficulty that the opponents could, occasionally, keep their equilibrium. The number of visitors was large, every place of vantage ground being well patronised. Clelland from first to last kept the front position in the boating, even being offered at first, and as much as 6 to 4 at the start, Clelland won the toss for side and chose the north side of the course, which was under the circumstances considerably the better position. The Anthony Nichol steamer attended, Mr. William Oldham, referee, Mr. Harry Clasper, umpire for Young, and Mr. George Wakelidze occupied the same office on behalf of Clelland. At the scratch Clelland was much the more eager of the two to get away, Darkey, however, would not waive a point, and so, after five false attempts, their sculls dipped exactly together, and the start of course roused the excitement of the spectators to the highest juncture. Although Young had the worst side, he, notwithstanding, managed to keep pace for the first 50 yards, when Clelland's craft showed a trifle in advance, and after a few slight errors on account of the rough water on both sides, Young was almost one length behind at the Mansion House, a position, by-the-by, scarcely a couple of hundred yards from the Bridge. Likely enough Clelland's supporters were jubilant, and irrespective of long odds offered, it was plainly a matter of fact that the race was not to be won as easily as expected, and the lively manner in which Young dug his sculls into the element, notwithstanding the sound drowning he received, betokened a rich treat for the lookers on. Almost before the Mansion House was cleared Young, by a few vigorous onslaughts, gradually made up, and making a little up as he went, finally left the Bottle House Quay in the rear, and continued to figure well. The race was a second time level at the Skinner's Burn, a fourth of the course. A splendid

The Cowes Royal Town Regatta has been appointed to take place on Wednesday, August 2, being the second day of the Squadron Regatta: it will consist of twelve rowing matches and various aquatic sports. These town amusements are under the patronage of Her Majesty and the Royal Yacht Squadron.

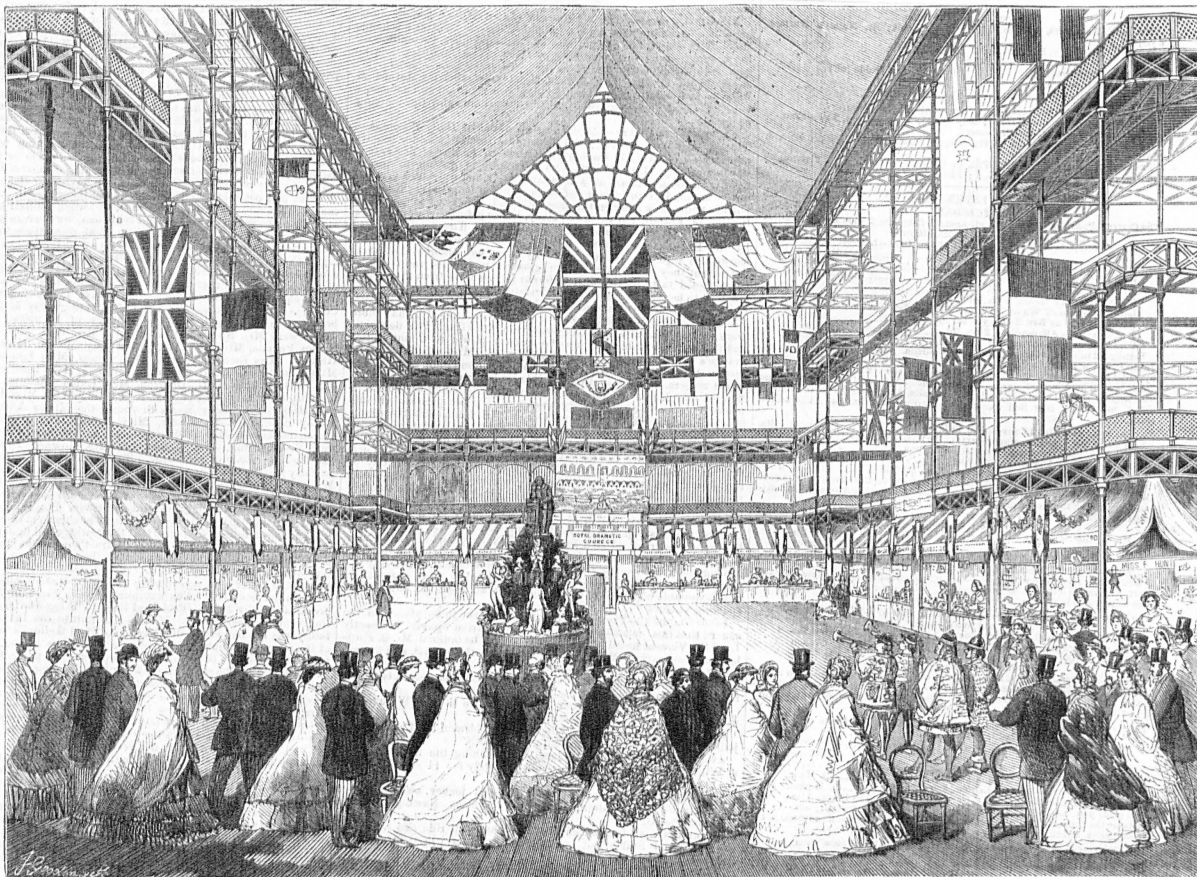

PORT OF PLYMOUTH ROYAL REGATTA.—It is decided that the Port of Plymouth Royal Regatta shall take place, in conjunction with that of the Royal Western Yacht Club, on Aug. 22 and 23.

HARTLEPOOL REGATTA.—It has been pointed out to us that Mr. C. G. Johnson, the winner of the skiff race for amateurs at the Hartlepool Regatta, is not a native of Newcastle, but is a Stockton man, and belongs to the Amateur Boat Club. It should also be stated that the Ivy, of Hull, and not the Cinderella, of the Tees, won the £40 cup.

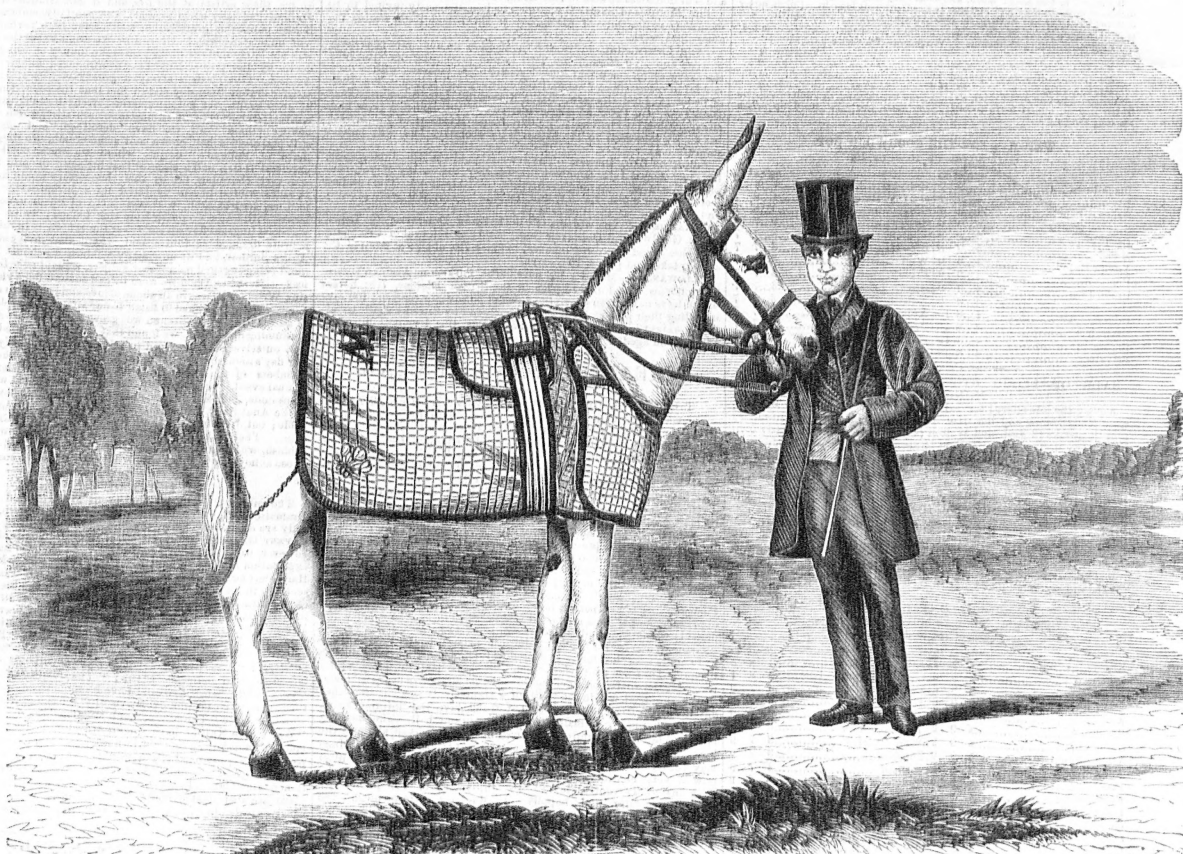

PRINCE ALFRED COAT AND BAPOR APPRENTICES' REGATTA.—This regatta will take place on Monday, August 7, in commemoration of the coming of age of Her Majesty's second son—Prince Alfred. The wager will be in five heats, and the competitors are apprentices who have served three years of their time, as under:—First heat: G. Baker, of Mill Stairs, Hermondsey; W. J. Taylor, of Rotherhithe; G. Wilson, of Westminster. Second heat: A. Hampton, of Custom House; C. Fraser, of Greenwich; A. Fowler, of Custom House. The course will be from the Bel-chain off Billingsgate to Shadwell and back. T. Cannon will be manager.

BRAY REGATTA, DUBLIN BAY.—This regatta, which now promises to be an annual affair, will take place on July 31. The particulars of the several prizes will be found in our advertising columns; they comprise £50 for yachts of any tonnage, £30 for yachts not exceeding 40 tons, £20 for yachts not exceeding 25 tons, and £5 for yachts not exceeding 6 tons, with 20 sovs for four-oared, and 10 sovs for pair-oared gigs, to be pulled and steered by gentlemen. It is expected there will be good master of vessels on the occasion, as it just suits the yachts coming from the Cork Harbour to the Kingsdown Regatta, which is to take place on Aug. 2.

The Royal West Yacht Club have just added to their fleet Mr. J. S. Sanderson's cutter, Penguin, 20 tons, now cruising on the south coast.

THE ROYAL DRAMATIC COLLEGE FANCY FAIR.—THE LADIES' STALLS.

THE FAMOUS DONKEY BELONGING TO H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

ANGLING.

THE THAMES.—There has been a quantity of roach and dace taken at Staines Bridge this last week. One gentleman caught forty pounds, and another angler was equally successful, some of the roach being over one pound in weight. Some good perch have also been taken. At Laleham Harris says he has been out two days with a party and caught twenty dozen of roach and dace, and a nice lot of gudgeon; and that on another day, with a gentleman, he had some good sport with the gudgeon, taking a few perch and six small jack. Rosewell does not give any return from Hailford, but simply states that there has been very good sport this last day or two. From Moulsey Smith observes that the fishing there has been rather dull, for want of rain, and that the only take worth notice was that of one party, who took fourteen barbel and some roach and dace. Johnson reports from Kingston that his son, with a gentleman, had got some good bream, that Clarke had caught some good roach, and that he had taken some 31st instant in the river Trout. A letter from Mr. R. Savidge, its treasurer, states that it was premature to say that "it would take place between Collingham Wharf and Carlton Ferry," as it is not decided whether it be above or below the former place, or on which side the river the respective competitors will stand, it being most desirable to keep the exact spots a secret, as they might be surreptitiously baited, which would be a very great injustice to the fair angler. The rules which govern the handicap may be given as concisely as follows:—That strictly fair angling be pursued. The use of more than one rod and one hook at a time to disqualify the competitor; and that he bait his own hook, strike and land his own fish; that he keep his spoil to himself until they are "weighed in." The heaviest weight of fish to be entitled to the first prize. All parties intending to "weigh in" are requested to stay on the fishing ground until the weighers attend upon them. Any amalgamation of fish to disqualify all concerned. All fish to be "weighed in" excepting pike. That all lookers-on be requested to keep from the anglers; and any competitor wishing to remove to another swim must, before doing so, intimate the same to one of the committee. Any fish taken contrary to these rules shall be minor prizes, the gift of Mr. Scotton's friends, will be awarded according to their value.

WHITEBAIT.—The Court Journal says:—"A very sweet little fish is the whitebait, now in prime condition, and swimming almost up to the doors of the Greenwich and Blackwall hotels. About a hundred of the fry make a moderate handful, and they should be caught, cooked, and all eaten in about the time it takes an exquisite to dress for dinner. Roll them in flour and fat, and let them just feel the heat of the pan; then turn them into a napkin, flavour with lemon, and eat as though you were hungry. A good cook, it is said, can produce excellent whitebait from the flour, the fat, and the lemon-juice, without any fish whatever; and, indeed, as Sam Weller said of the mutton pies, 'it's the seasoning as does it.' Down the river, where the fish are caught, you have the genuine article. You see the silvery little gentlemen swimming in the tin pail, to which ever and anon comes the cook with a ladle to take a draught for some hasty dinner. They are no sooner out of the pail than they are into the frying-pan, and thence to the napkin, which is the last scene of all that ends their strange, eventful history."

jack of about four and five pounds each; but that on the whole the bottom fishing has not been good. There are plenty of fish, he says, but he cannot catch them. The sport at Teddington this week has greatly improved; a large quantity of roach, dace, barbel, and bream have been taken, the largest barbel being 8 lb., caught by a gentleman with W. Kemp, sen. A few jack have been taken under the weir. The anglers of Teddington will regret to hear of the death of Mr. Samuel Kemp, of the Anglers' Hotel, which took place on Sunday last, from a stroke which he had on Thursday night week. He was much respected, having endeared to him a large circle of the angling and rowing fraternity, who will deeply regret his death; he had nearly reached his eightieth year. I have no return of sport from Richmond; it has not been so good as last week, but there are plenty of fish, and a change of water will bring a return of good sport again. Clarke, the fisherman at Isleworth, has had some good luck in roach and dace fishing, and anglers desirous of fishing there will find him a very civil and obliging man.—W. H. BROOKMAN, Isleworth.

HANDICAP AT NOTTINGHAM.—The All-England Angling Handicap, got up at Nottingham amongst the fishermen is to come off on the laid before the committee, and its decision be final. Each extremity of the fishing ground where this match takes place shall be marked with a flag. Each angler will be properly handicapped with time according to his merits, and may be allowed to fish wherever he may please within the flag-marked boundary, provided he does not approach nearer than thirty yards to either of his fellow competitors. Any competitor entering in his wrong name will be disqualified; and all must fish from the bank. Any one found wading, or fishing from a boat, will also be disqualified. No place will be allowed to be baited, neither will holding for eels. "Caution to Spectators.—In order that this handicap may be conducted with honesty and propriety, police officers will be engaged, whose duty it will be to expel from that locality any one holding intercourse or conversation with any competitor during the hours of competition." The entrance fee is three shillings each, to be paid at Mr. Thomas Scotton's, on any day except Sunday, and to close on Saturday, the 26th instant. The water contains barbel, roach, dace, bream, chub, perch, eels, bleak, flounders, &c. The first prize will consist of four, and will be given in money. First prize, £10; second, £5; third, £3; and fourth, £1. Besides which a number of

THE USE RIVER-WATCHERS AND THE MAGISTRATES.—After the Usk magistrates had decided a fish poaching case, on Friday week, the chairman (Mr. Ralph) remarked, that the magistrates disapproved of the river-watchers hiding themselves in order to get up cases. They ought to act upon the principle laid down for the police, and that was, to endeavour to prevent rather than detect crime, by showing themselves as much as possible. He trusted the conservators would be informed of his remarks, as they strongly objected to the course pursued. Mr. Roberts, who appeared for the Fishery Association, said he would acquaint the conservators of the opinion of the bench.

SINGULAR PLACE FOR A ROBIN'S NEST.—For three successive seasons a robin has built its nest in a watering-can suspended from an interior wall of a tool-house standing in the garden of Mr. Thomas Constable, of the Manor House, Olney. The progeny, four in number this year, are just fledged, but still exhibit some apparent fear of the presence of the gardener, with whom the whole family are great favourites.

SURREY v. NOTTINGHAMSHIRE.

On Saturday, at Kennington Oval, this match was resumed, Nottinghamshire, with six wickets down for 171 runs, continuing their second innings, and Brampton finished his innings with 88, displaying some very fine batting. He received the "talisman money," and deservedly. Total of the innings, 267. Surrey had 195 to get to win, and most pluckily did they try to do so. Jupp contributed 35, Mortlock 29, Omar 13, Mr. Dawson 16, but the "lagger" was taken by H. Stephenson, who added 75 in splendid style, for which he was rewarded at the Pavilion. The excitement near the close was very great; 14 runs had to be got when the last man (Sawell) went in. The number was reduced to 5, when Sawell, amidst loud cheering, made a drive to the racket court, and obtained a victory for Surrey by scoring that number. Annexed is the account:

HARROW v. ETON.

On Saturday morning, at Lord's Ground, this match was resumed in the presence of a very large and fashionable company. Eton went on with their second innings, Mr. Walter (not out with 10) and Mr. W. W. Phipps (not out with 25) again taking possession of the wickets the score standing at 80. Mr. W. W. Phipps did not add to his number, Mr. Hartley bowling him; five wickets and 63 runs. Mr. Walter made his figures 25, but when he retired there was no one to bat. The sixth wicket fell for 75, seventh for 101, eighth for 106, ninth for 110, and tenth for 111. Thus Harrow won the match in one innings with 51 runs over, amidst loud cheers from their friends and admirers. The matches won on both sides are now equal, viz., 19. The arrangements of the M.C.C. committee were most satisfactory. The toping of the ground and the erection of the temporary pavilion and marquees for refreshment (well served by Mr. J. Day, of the tavern) were entrusted to Mr. Unto, of the Edge-ware-road. The police, under the superintendence of Superintendent Walker, and by Inspector Gray, and Messrs. Gregory and Silvester (A. division), did their "duty" gently. The following is the score:

CRICKET ON THE CONTINENT.

(To the Editor of the "Illustrated Sporting News.")

Sir,—In perusing your journal of the 26th ult. I find in an article on cricket the following question: "Will the noble pastime ever be acclimated in France?" Without discussing the question, will you allow me to bring under your notice the following facts? We have in this town a cricket club, long established, by a few English residents, the most being composed of Frenchmen, among whom we have about twenty who follow the game with much enthusiasm. During this season they have had many of our French players severely wounded; in one particular had his hand cut open catching a ball between his fingers; another received a blow upon his cheek-bone, causing a most unsightly black eye. In no case has it caused them to discontinue playing, the last-named having played in a match here the 30th June (only a few days after his accident), between our club and that of Lyons, in which we were victorious, though our eleven was composed of only five English and six French, against nine English and two French. Being an Englishman I feel it my duty to render justice to the perseverance and courage of our native players, as none of them ever played before last year, and the majority commenced only this. I feel sure that, if we may take as a sample for the other towns our French players of this, France will before many years be able to muster some very strong elevens, and the game will become very popular.—I am, Sir, yours, &c., A DAUGHTY CRICKETER, Grenoble, July 16.

T. DUFFREY.—Up to Saturday last (inclusive) this player had scored 1,036 runs this season. W. CAFFY.—The mail just arrived from Australia brings news up to the 20th of May. The cricket season was then over, and a published summary states that Caffyn had played in eleven matches, had fifteen innings (four out), scored 435 runs, his average being 50 and 6 over; his highest innings was 120 run out. His cricket was highly eulogized by the critics.

AN AUSTRALIAN ELEVEN FOR ENGLAND.—From journals received by the recently arrived mail from Australia we learn that a project had been started to send the following eleven to England from New South Wales: Caffyn, Curtis, Gosselin, Gorman, Howitt, Chas. Lawrence, and Thompson; and from Victoria: Gibson, Groves, Tate, Mr. Wardill, and Mr. Wills.

CARLTON v. ST. JAMES'S.—This match was played at Victoria Park on Saturday, the 14th inst., and resulted in an easy victory for the Carltons. When time called the score stood as under: St. James, 45; Carlton, with eight wickets down, 149.

ANOTHER sudden death in consequence of excitement at elections has occurred at B. and S. L. The old man named Moorhouse was seized with a fit at the instigations and died.

Mrs. M'KENZIE, of Glasgow, an Edinburgh student, accidentally fell over a cliff at Austell, Cornwall, last week, and was killed. It is thought she may have rolled over in her sleep, as a book he had been reading had found on the top.

A ROYAL YACHT, on a visit at Hartlepool, fell asleep one day last week on a rock at some little distance from the shore, and was cut off by the tide. Whilst a raft was being made for her rescue, an Irishman swam off with a rope and life-buoy and brought her safely.

At Darton a young lady, the daughter of a surgeon, happened to go into a kitchen where a butcher was in the act of killing a brace of ducks. Seeing blood running from one of the birds she fainted, and being removed to a couch died almost immediately. Death is supposed to have resulted from the shock occasioned to the nervous system, the young lady having the greatest aversion to the sight of blood of any kind.

Mrs. JAMESON, of Whitley, who was on a visit to her son, recently ordained a curate of Holy Trinity parish, Oxford, was accidentally killed at Littlemore on Saturday week. She had gone with a party to inspect the church there, and was the first to enter the carriage to return, when, before any one else could get in, the horse started off, and the driver being out of the box, she, being frightened, jumped out, and, falling on her back, was killed.

Bel's Weekly Messenger gives an account of a recent suicide of a military officer (whose name is suppressed), much connected with theatricals, and an active member of the Council of the Royal Academy of Music. It would seem that he had been previously, while engaged in promoting a concert for the benefit of Giuliani, who had proposed marriage to a prima donna, and on receiving her letter of refusal, immediately blew out his brains. The same journal then comments upon the extraordinary manner in which he died, and that he was engaged in funeral having taken place without an inquest having been held, and, referring to Dr. Lankaster's remissness in this respect, asks, "What is the use of a coroner?"

The Marquis of Westminster, K.G., has forwarded to Messrs. Ransom and Co., the Marquis of the House for Gentlemen in Reduced Circumstances, 25, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, a donation of £500, in aid of the funds of that useful institution.

The carpenters and joiners employed by Messrs. Cubitt have struck for 6s. 6d. more wages per week, in consequence of the price of meat. They are supported by the trade.

At the recent fire in the British Museum the Anglo-Saxon manuscript known as Pope Gregory the Great's "Pastoral," given by Alfred the Great to Eusebius, Archbishop of Canterbury, was destroyed. Several other valuable manuscripts were also injured.

Some interesting remains of an Anglo-Saxon date have been discovered in Walton Manor, Oxford, during the digging of a drain. They consist of a skeleton, a spear-head, and the base of a shield, and the articles have been deposited in the Ashmolean Museum.

The Queen of the Netherlands went to Lord's Cricket Ground on Saturday and witnessed the match between Harrow and Eton.

The Great Eastern, with the Atlantic cable on board, passed the port of Falmouth on Monday morning.

ADVISORS by the West India mail state that the disagreement between Spain and Chili had been amicably settled in a manner honourable to Chili and satisfactory to Spain.

A MURDERMAN named Elliott was brutally murdered in Omagh, last week, by some of his comrades of the Tyrone Militia. Three men are in custody.

As showing the value of land in the City of London, it is noted that a piece of land, occupying a site of 2,600 ft. in Cannon-street, at the corner of Bow-street, has been sold for £100,000.

FRANCIS JONKES has ordered that the citizens of New York who were tried, convicted, and sentenced by a military court, should be handed over to the civil power in New York for a new trial.

A FAMILY of position have been thrown into the deepest distress of mind by the death of their daughter, who was only 17 years of age. Every effort to find a clue to the whereabouts of the unhappy girl has proved fruitless. The young lady has a fortune in her own right of ten thousand pounds.

A GENTLEMAN named Jarrett, who had attended the nomination at Scarborough, died suddenly on the platform at the station there through excitement. Another gentleman, who saw deceased's death, had a fit on the platform, but recovered.

A West Indian paper professes to know a "sovereign remedy for diphtheria." Here is the receipt: "Take a small quantity of pipe, place a live coal in the bowl, draw a little tar upon the coal, draw the smoke into the mouth, and discharge it through the nostrils."

Ford's Theatre at Washington, where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, is to be transformed into a church.

It is currently reported, and generally believed in West-end circles, that a marriage between the Prince of Orange and the Princess Helena was definitely arranged on Friday last.

Mr. Rumball, a surgeon practising at Harpenden, has been fined £20 at the Central Criminal Court for having received a lunatic into his house without a proper medical certificate.

Mrs. Egerton, who was burned severely at the fire which occurred on the stage of Holter's Concert Hall on the night of the 3rd inst., expired on Sunday morning, having suffered severely from the injuries which she received.

A story is current that the Duke of Cambridge, happening to meet Colonel Dawkins lately, held out his hand, and told him that he had no private animosity toward that officer. Colonel Dawkins, however, failing to appreciate the courtesy, turned away.

It is now stated that the whole of the disputed claims to the Russell property have been compromised—that there will be no more legal proceedings, and that William Russell, the self-convicted forger, will very shortly be sent to the convict establishment at Bermuda.

The Hon. Mr. William Russell, who has appeared on the London stage, now intends to transfer himself to Liverpool, where he will appear in a new drama. Latterly Liverpool has been the door to London in theatrical matters. Having given us the greatest actor of the day in general comedy, the Dickses have a right to think they can do something—Good Four.

Mrs. HINTON, the ballet girl whose clothes caught fire while she was engaged performing at Holter's Concert-hall, Birmingham, on the night of the 14th inst., died on Thursday in the hospital.

During evening service at the congregation of St. Mary's Church, Stamford, were greatly alarmed by an exceedingly vivid flash of lightning followed by a heavy peal of thunder. At the same moment the interior of the church was lit up by what appeared to be a sheet of flame, which seemed to emit innumerable sparks, and gave out a startling report, and a great commotion.

Latterly Liverpool has been the door to London in theatrical matters. Having given us the greatest actor of the day in general comedy, the Dickses have a right to think they can do something—Good Four.

Mrs. HINTON, the ballet girl whose clothes caught fire while she was engaged performing at Holter's Concert-hall, Birmingham, on the night of the 14th inst., died on Thursday in the hospital.

During evening service at the congregation of St. Mary's Church, Stamford, were greatly alarmed by an exceedingly vivid flash of lightning followed by a heavy peal of thunder. At the same moment the interior of the church was lit up by what appeared to be a sheet of flame, which seemed to emit innumerable sparks, and gave out a startling report, and a great commotion.

It is now stated that the whole of the disputed claims to the Russell property have been compromised—that there will be no more legal proceedings, and that William Russell, the self-convicted forger, will very shortly be sent to the convict establishment at Bermuda.

agent at Stamford, was conveyed home in a similar condition by Sir Stafford Northcote, Bart. Beyond the fright no personal injury was sustained. It was found that the spire and tower had been struck in three places by the electric fluid, and that the damage had done to the pavement on the opposite side of the road, striking the shop front of Mr. Bromhead, draper. The damage throughout the tower and spire is believed to be very extensive.

At the Winchester assizes has come on the long-delayed trial of the murder of George Broadhead, for the murder of Caroline Sophia Colborne, at Shirley, in December last. When called upon to plead, he answered, "I wish to die," so the judge, Mr. Justice Keating, directed a plea of "Not guilty" to be recorded. The prisoner, it will be recollected, was a servant, and had been attached to the woman who was murdered when she was a fellow servant, and who she married another man.

Paying her a visit, he first shot her and then himself, he would prove fatal. For a long time the prisoner hovered between life and death, but eventually recovered. Several witnesses were called to prove these facts. The facts were not denied, the defendant rested upon the plea of insanity; and evidence was given that the prisoner had never been himself since he had received some gun shot wounds when attending on Lord George Beauchamp on a shooting excursion in September, 1862.

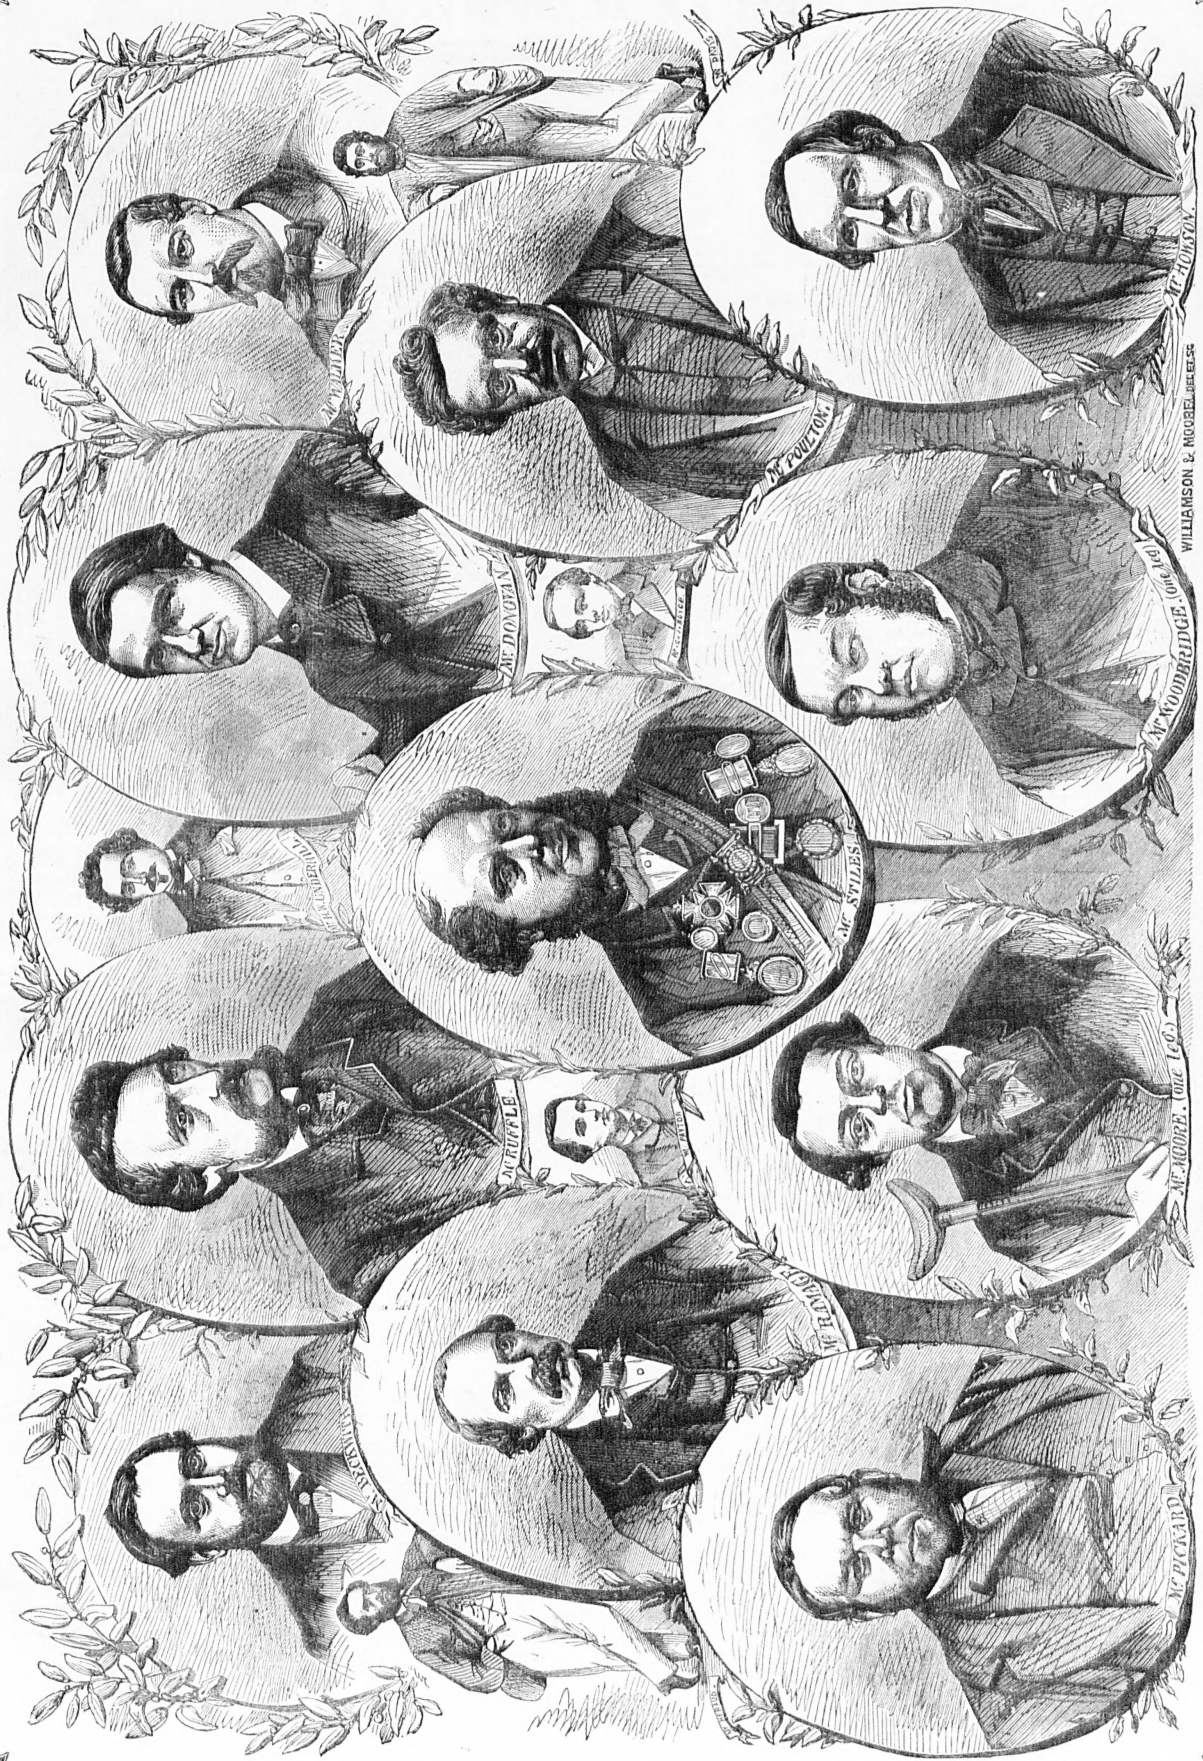

Lord Falkland, one of the party, missed his bird and shot the accused from whose head and back thirty shots were afterwards extracted. In summing up the learned Judge said, in reference to the plea of insanity, that it was not every aberration of mind that would free him. The aberration must be such an extent as to disable him from discriminating between right and wrong, with reference to the nature and quality of the act which he committed. The jury returned a verdict of "Guilty," and sentence of death was passed.

At the Warwick Assizes, before Mr. Justice Blackburn, Hannah Maria Wedgwood, the wife of Mr. William Robert Wedgwood, of Garsfield Hall, Hampshire, has been found guilty of forgery, and sentenced to a term of imprisonment for £1,000, at Birmingham. The case for the prosecution was that in 1861 the prisoner commenced negotiating loans with Mr. Williams, solicitor, of Birmingham, after representing that her godmother, Miss Maria Jones, was the owner of a house in Birmingham, with a leasehold for £21,000. In April, 1861, the lease thus effected amounted to the large sum of £11,650, payment of which was deferred, at the request of the prisoner, until 1865. In May, 1864, she negotiated by correspondence, through Mr. Williams, a further loan of £1,000, which was advanced by Mr. Holdersworthy, of Birmingham, at 10 per cent. interest. For this loan a forged promissory note was given as security. The defence was that the prisoner had acted under the influence and direction of her husband, who had left his wife to be the victim. The jury returned a verdict of "Guilty."

In reply to the learned Judge, stated that the total amount obtained by the prisoner by forged notes was nearly £12,000. She was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. The husband, after leaving the court, was hoisted and threatened with violence. He had to be escorted by the police.
